Home Comfort Ranges!

The present century is pre-eminently one of practical progress and improvement, yet in no branch of industry have greater gains been made than in that which aids in loading the table with food perfectly prepared, one of the first and most necessary steps toward health, that boon priceless alike to prince or poor man. The brush heap probably cooked the first food, and the huge fireplace, garnished with hooks, cranes and ovens, was a giant stride in progress. It took years of patient toil to bring up to its present grade of utility the cast iron cook stove. It is now conceded by most thoughtful people to have had its day of usefulness, and in every point of superiority Wrought-Iron Ranges are superceding them. Investigation, experience and practical tests have demonstrated these to be incontrovertible facts. Practical experience is potent and absolute, and by that severe test we have carefully tried every progressive step and change in the construction of our Ranges. We absolutely guarantee them to work to perfection, and they make friends everywhere. They are marvels of usefulness, and economic no less than sanitary reasons urge that they be used in every family. Wealth without health is adorned poverty, and poverty without health is misery. Good food, properly cooked, is a great factor in health, hence the necessity that all should have one of our matchless "Home Comfort" Ranges, bringing health and comfort; so that "good digestion waits on appetite, and health on both."

HAMMERED TO DEATH.

A Connecticut Justice of the Peace Brutally Murdered in His Own House.

Suspicion Rests Upon a Man Whom He Had Recently Fined for Drunkenness—The Murderer Traced Through the Yard by the Imprints of His Bare Foot—Story of the Arrest.

By Telegrams to the Post-Dispatch.

New Haven, Conn., October 9.—Dr. Walter H. Zink, a leading physician and trial justice of Hartford, a small town eight miles from here, had his skull smashed by a hammer, as supposed, in the hands of Robert Dougherty, late last night, and will die. Dougherty was arrested, and sufficient proof, it is thought, can be obtained to convict him. He was after 11 o'clock last night when the doctor came in from his office to his house. His coachman, David Beaudet, was in the barn at the time, but came in shortly after. As was his custom, the doctor sat down to table in his dining-room, where a lamp is always spread for him on his return at night, and began to eat and read the evening papers. It is thought that he fell asleep, with his head resting on one hand and his elbow on the table. While asleep, Dougherty cautiously opened the door into the kitchen and went through it to the dining-room, crawled behind the door and struck him three blows on the head with a hammer. The doctor fell over on the table.

and became insensible. No one knows how long he remained there, but he finally got up and tried to reach the door. With his head on blood he staggered to the front door and fell. As he fell, he clutched the door-bell and rang it violently. The coachman awoke, and rushing to the door, found his master lying in a pool of blood on the door-step and bloody footprints from the dining-room table to the door. Dr. Graydon and Kelsey were sent for and word was sent to Coroner Holliman and Sheriff Johnston. Dr. Graydon found there was a hole in the left occipital bone and a long, tearing scalp wound. There were actually made by a hammer. The first blow took a direct blow on the head, and the other two seemed as if the hammer had turned and the latter blow been given with the back instead of the front of the hammer. The skull was fractured and the physician took out a number of pieces of bone. Two German physicians, Dr. George and Sturtevant, came out with the Coroner and asked Dr. Graydon for his examination. Dr. Zink was conscious at the time and murmured: "I am done for this time." When he was struck Dr. Zink's head on his person. Part of the money was found in the yard, outside the door, with his gold watch, where they had been dropped by his assailant. Another roll was found on the dining-room floor and part was missing. Coroner Holliman and Sheriff Johnston began a search at once, with the aid of a lantern.

were found to and from the house in the direction of the gate near the barn which opened into an adjoining lot, made by a barefoot person. Last Saturday Justice Zink had fined an Irishman named Robert Dougherty who lives on Main street, about one mile from the doctor's house, for drunkenness and assault on him while he was trying to separate Dougherty and Robert Pollock, who were fighting. Dougherty thought the penalty unjust and asked for an appeal. It was allowed on the appeal but not on the drunk. Dougherty paid the fines and costs and went away muttering threats. This forenoon at 3 o'clock Dougherty was arrested. He was found in bed was awakened, and his feet measured. The footprints were 10 1/2 inches long and corresponded with the fresh ones in the great front door. Dougherty is lame and cannot walk very long. This was found to correspond with the footprints, which were only ten inches long. Dougherty has a long luncheon on his big toe, making a noticeable feature, and the footprints show a similar feature. Dougherty's story is very contradictory. He had been drinking the night before and was not thoroughly sober when arrested. He is 45 years old, somewhat looking, with a red, straggling beard and long matted hair. He is a heavy drinker. Dr. Zink is quite a prominent local physician. He has held many local offices and is a graduate of a German medical college.

WAS IT LIBEL?

Minnie Palmer's Suit Against Richard K. Fox Comes up in Court.

By Telegrams to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, October 9.—Miss Palmer, richly clad in a bright colored dress, and wearing a wide brimmed straw hat with a monster feather, was the central attraction as she sat with her mother in part three of the Superior Court yesterday morning. She had come with her counsel, Mr. A. H. Hammett, to testify in her $5,000 libel suit against Mr. Richard K. Fox, publisher. Mr. Fox was also present, looking somewhat startled and excited. With him were his counsel, Col. Charles Spencer and Austin Jordan, the writer of the article. When Miss Palmer alleges to have damaged her reputation to the extent of the amount in suit for. Why the case was called, Col. Spencer moved an adjournment on the ground of the absence of material witnesses for the defense. He read an affidavit of Mr. Fox, in which the latter says that one Wm. Rogers, who left this city to manage "Leary's" political tour, and who is at present in Mexico, could testify that the relations between Minnie and her manager, John Rogers, were alleged in the article complained of. Mr. Fox also deposes that, shortly after the summons and complaint had been served on him, he is company with Mr. Gordon, met Mr. Hammett on the street and that the latter told him that all Mr. Rogers wanted was a re-arrangement. Mr. Fox promised to print Miss Palmer's picture and favorable notice of her in his paper, and Mr. Hammett then told him that he would do so. The suit would not be pressed. Mr. Fox further deposes that the article complained of was inserted at Mr. Rogers' request, and that, thinking that there would be no trial, he had made no preparations for one. He wanted time to go on commissions to examine important witnesses in London. Col. Spencer next read an affidavit of Gordon in which the latter corroborated Fox's statement. Judge Trusty took the affidavits and said he would give his decision at the end of the trial of an adjournment. It soon he ordered the suit to be placed at the foot of the docket, which renders it impossible that this month. Was Palmer looked disappointed and so did the through which had gathered to listen to the testimony in the case. The purpose of the defendant seems to have been to obtain a continuance.

TEMPERANCE TOPICS

Discussed at the W. C. T. U. Convention—

Skipped for Canada—Soldiers' Strike.

FRONT, Ill., October 9.—The second day's proceedings of the W. C. T. U. annual convention were very interesting. Addresses were made by several ladies. The President's report showed that there are now 47 unions, with a membership of 8,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 9.—Fred Van Trump, book-keeper for Frank Douglas, dealer in machinery at 253 Canal street, while left in charge of the business during his employer's absence. A fire, estimated $1,500, which he wasted in gambling. He has skipped for Canada.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ill., October 9.—Martin Connolly died yesterday from the effects of the blow given him by Lewis Rankin at a recent political meeting.

MARSHALL, Ill., October 9.—Eight cases of small-pox are reported in the vicinity of Darwin, and the disease seems to be spreading.

JOHNSVILLE, Ill., October 9.—The trial of Isaac P. Davis, charged with murdering his brother-in-law, James K. Davis, last fall, ended yesterday, the jury returning a verdict of guilty and fixing his punishment at five years in the penitentiary.

QUINCY, Ill., October 9.—Yesterday morning, because Mr. Stages refused to recognize the Shop Committee of the Union. Other reasons for the action were that the manufacturers refused to turn out the apprentices taken in during the late strike and deducted one cent on each button for the patent die furnished.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., October 9.—The corner stone of the new F. M. E. A. building was laid here yesterday, and in the evening a meeting in honor of the occasion was held in the Second Presbyterian Church.

WILMINGTON, Ill., October 9.—The city is in a ferment of excitement over an attempt of a majority of councilmen to grant the license, and when the Clerk refused to sign it, elected another one. The mayor resigned, and, on a motion to reconsider, the license was deferred.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., October 9.—All of the sick persons in A. G. Epler's herd were killed yesterday, and a post mortem examination revealed the fact that the cause of death was acute pneumonia, and not pleuropneumonia, as had been expected.

BALLET DANCING.

Its Origin and Improvement—Dancing Among the Events—Famous Danseuses.

Ballet dancing is an art in which fewer persons become proficient enough to command public notice than any other. After many and vigorous researches we have succeeded in compiling what may be termed a treatise on the ballet. The most authentic references tell us that the first person who coupled the movements of the limbs with music was Andron, a native of Catania in Sicily. His instrument was a peculiar kind of flute, the music a plaintive chant like air, and the movement a strange combination of licentious gestures and writhing. Ancient Athens was the home of many famous dancers of its day, the art being more particularly encouraged there. Plato and Socrates were warm advocates of Terpsichore. Dancing in those days was divided into three classes: The "Cordax" was a loose sort of affair introduced into comedy; the "Sicinnia" was a peculiar movement, greatly resembling the modern "grotesque" school, in which Mosa Arnold Kindly has become so proficient; and the "Emmeleia," which latter is the closest allied to the ballet of the present day. Dancing was popular in France in the days of Catherine II. Medici, who erected and dedicated a statue to Terpsichore.

At a later period, however, the art found more favor in Italy, which up to the present time has produced more famous dancers than any other nation. The most famous of the last generation were Fannie Eliser, Marie Taglioni and Francesca Cerrito. Later on came Bonfanti, who afterward married young Hoffman, son of the (then) Governor of New York and Venturini, who is now a total wreck, and was recently arrested in New York as a vagrant, and sent to Blackwell's Island, where she still remains. The Kindlys were the most famous family of dancers of modern times, and created a genuine sensation, both in Europe and America. They have all retired from the stage, with the exception of Arnold, who has attracted considerable attention as the most successful exponent of grotesque dancing now before the public. Imre and Belosy now constitute the spectacular managerial firm, and have proved themselves veritable geniuses in their chosen branch of the profession. They employ numerous ballet dancers, and have been instrumental in presenting to the American public the most famous dancers of the Old World.

To the Consumptive—Wilbur's Compound of Cod-Liver Oil and Lime, without possessing the very nauseating flavor of the article as heretofore used, is endowed by the Phosphate of Lime with a healing property which renders the Oil doubly efficacious. Remarkable testimonials of its efficacy can be shown. Sold by A. B. Wilson, Chemist, Boston, and all druggists.

SPLENDID CHANCES.

Where Useful and Beautiful Things May be Had Very Low.

Those who come to the city and city people themselves will have missed one of the most beautiful sights in it if they fail to visit the Mermod & Jacard Jewelry Company's store, at Fourth and Locust. It contains the richest and most elegant stock of silvers, jewelry and art things in this country. This company sells an enormous amount of goods yearly, and, in consequence, it must make immense purchases. These purchases are made for cash, in the best markets, and for this reason the firm can sell goods lower than any other firm in the West. The prices for the magnificent are positively marvelous. In the stock is a splendid assortment of watches of all kinds. The movements of the company, being made expressly for them, have a world-wide reputation for reliability and excellence. They are incomparable as timepieces, and are sold at prices which are absolutely below competition. A magnificent catalogue, containing 1,500 engravings of the most beautiful things, is given away by the company.
